ALASKA PAID FOR.—The warrant for the payment of the purchase money for Alaska, $7,200,000 in coin, has been signed by the Secretary of the Treasury and transmitted to Baron Stockel, the Russian minister, with a draft for that amount, payable in New York. It was signed by Gen. Spinner, and a receipt given by the Russian Minister.

A bill has passed the Tennessee Senate, by a unanimous vote, expressing the inability of the State to meet its interest, and providing for the funding of the same.

The Cincinnati Herald says: "A year ago Frank Blair was a Republican. Now he is a rebel. What will he be a year hence?" Vice President of the United States. And, when elected, he will take his seat, if he has to make the heads of the Mongrels spin like tops first.

OVER a seventh part of the State of Mississippi is advertised for sale under execution.

The Cincinnati Gazette says "that Democratic politics always meant a state of warfare." If that is so, remarks an exchange, why did it arraign the Democracy as a peace party during the late war? Did it tell the truth then, or is it telling the truth now? Which of its statements is correct?

Why Don't They?—It has been announced in some of the Washington and

New York journals that the President has ordered the Secretary of War to withdraw all the military from those States which have representatives in Congress.

This seems very probable in view of the obvious justice to those States, and of its perfect accord with the Presidential policy, as expressed in his many communications to Congress. Yet the correspondence of the Cincinnati Commercial spoils the story by stating that no such order has been issued, nor has any direction been given to issue it.

A REGULAR WAR.—It would appear from the newspaper accounts of the late negro riot in Texas, that the negroes have recently declared war against the whites, and that the latter (including the military) have conceded to them the rights of belligerents, and granted to them the privileges and immunities usually accorded to regular forces in the field under national auspices. Pickets have been established, and flags of truce have passed between the contestants, in order that they might bury their dead. This most singular state of affairs has caused the wildest excitement to exist throughout the State, and one of the attendant rumors (generally spread) was to the effect that the "Constitutional" Convention intended to disarm all the whites, arm all the negroes, and thus force the ratification of the Constitution about to be manufactured, and establish negro supremacy upon the basis of both law and brute force. It is a terrible state of things, truly. What can be the ultimate result of this marvellous condition of affairs no one can foresee.

MURDERERS.

Sixteen citizens of De Soto county, Mississippi, have been arrested on the charge of belonging to a gang of horse thieves. It is said they are a part of a large party of desperadoes in North Mississippi, West Tennessee and Southern Illinois, with regular posts and patrols from Cairo to Grenada.

The Memphis Avalanche gives an account of the final breaking up of this extensive band of desperadoes, which in point of numbers and daring rivaled the Murrelites who were a terror to the people of the South forty or fifty years ago.

They were regularly officered and disciplined, being under the command of a fellow named Cage Philpot, a man of low and brutal instincts. Their headquarters were in North Mississippi, from whence they extended their operations as far as Southern Illinois, as represented by the above paragraph, extracted

The People Determined on a Change.

From all the lights we can gather as to the direction of the public sentiment of the nation, we are led to the conclusion, says the National Intelligencer, that it is bearing on with irresistible force to the expulsion of the Radical party from power. This is the direction of the nation, and it is shared, as we shall demonstrate, with almost equal confidence by the leaders of the Radical party.

In the autumn of 1865 the Radicals succeeded in retaining their power, though with comparatively small majorities, in New York and Pennsylvania, by a skillful appeal to the passions evoked by the war, and by the pretense that they were not really at issue with the policy of the President. Their lying platforms of that day were the lying prelude to that of Chicago in May '66.

In the year 1866 these leaders skillfully contrived to retain their power much in the same way, partly by inciting sectional hatreds, by misrepresentations of the policy of the Executive, and by the influence of the press, that they would use power to bring about peace to the country. On this last idea, especially, they were successful. It is singularly taught them by how frail a tenure their power was held.

This lesson of 1866, instead of being a warning to the paths of justice, moderation and peace, it impelled to directly the reverse temper—to acts of violence, tyranny and wrong, designed to concentrate and perpetuate the power. Dis-trusting the North, they sought to take the "bond of fate" against defeat, by manufacturing rotten boroughs at the South.

To this end they struck down as illegal State governments to which they had submitted to them for ratification their own "constitutional amendment," and inaugurated military despotism. They thus "put a sword," as their own orators announced, "in the throat of every man in the South," proclaimed universal suffrage, and disfranchised one-third of the white population. And then, having thus created new constituencies unknown to the Constitution, they provided carefully for further fraud by test oaths, which necessarily threw the offices of register and judges of elections in many localities into the hands of ignorant negroes or corrupt adventurers.

Such was the sin. Swift followed the

THE EFFECTS OF A FREE GOVERNMENT

DESPOTISM.

The New York World, says the first political contest subsequent to the Presidential nominations has a mathematical, political and a moral value, which the people will do well to profit by. The double fact that Kentucky was divided, and that no organized party was presented to the people, is a lesson which the conclusive victory teaches. It was not the result of a mere contest of numbers, but of a contest of principles. That significance lies in the fact that the people have shown that they are capable of doing more than to be ruled by a tyrant and a spoiler whose rule is insupportable—a burden and an agony under which a whole nation cries out for a change.

And this word "change" is written so broadly and legibly on the canvass of the future that he who doubts the result of the coming election must be blind. What change? The change that will bring this land, that men should desire or permit its perpetration? How many persons are happy, how many are comfortable, and how many live under this way? What relief does it promise to the taxpayer and the laborer? It promises peace; and yet, while using the word, they tell us in the very next breath that they have established a rule at the South so hateful, so unendurable, so directly the reverse of the principles of popular liberty, that a bloody civil war may become necessary at any moment to make apparent to this people the blessings of their rule. Nay, more; they demand a fresh army, a large military force, for the North, in every Congressional district.

This party has now held almost uninterrupted sway for three long weary years, and just so long has the whole land groaned as in an agony. Never in this country before has so much power been wielded by a political party. They have not merely used all the powers rightfully belong to Congress, but they have taken to themselves the power of the President and the Supreme Court; and, lastly, by treating the Constitution as a thing of naught, they have usurped a large mass of powers rightly belonging to the States and the people.

With all this vast concentration of power in their hands, the country prospered. They made it happier, freer, richer, or more peaceful, or the reverse of all these?

Therefore, seeing all this, the people demand a change. Appreciating, also, this fact of the popular discontent, Congress is full of schemes to build outlet the popular determination. Thirteen leaders now will avail not. The masses of the land are determined on a change of rulers, and these leaders might as well attempt to dam up Niagara as to defeat their will. Neither fraud, nor art, nor Congressional chicane or menace can stand up against the power of great numbers, the brawny arms of the plundered and oppressed millions, and the force of truth. The reaction of 1867 has become a ground-swell, and those who dash against it will find themselves swept away by the great popular current. He who does not see it must be willfully ance, graphically depicts the condition

Letter from Col. Oscar Turner.

BALLARD COUNTY, July 29, '68.

GEORGE WARREN:

Dear Sir:—I have seen in your able and interesting paper, and in the Paducah Herald, several calls upon me to become a candidate for Congress in the ensuing year. I desire through your paper to make the same reply that I uniformly make to those of my friends who have solicited me privately.

I have no personal desire to make the race for Congress. My private affairs need my close attention, and in addition to this, I have only served part of a session of my Senatorial term, and do not think it would be treating my friends right who honored me with their sup-portages for the Senate, to abandon the position at this important crisis, without their consent. It may become my duty to be absent from this District, causing in the Presidential campaign, having to the position assigned me by the last Democratic State Convention, to terminate Election for the State at large at the very time I would have to be a candidate for Congress.

I consider the importance, not only of the contest of vital importance, but to the Democratic Party, but to the millions of people who are to be benefited if we are defeated, I feel the hope of constitutional liberty is gone. It is a struggle in which every man should do his whole duty—however humble he may be—and I hope to be able to render some service in the cause. My duty to the Democracy is a heavy one. I consider of more importance than the gratification of any

Fulton Democratic Committee.
The Democratic State Central Committee at Frankfort have appointed the following Executive Committee for Fulton county: Henry A. Tyler, Chairman; George Warren, John A. Wilson, G. S. Miles, W. R. McConnell, James H. Craig.

Death of Thaddeus Stevens.
This aged man who, for the past few years, has filled so large a space in the public eye, died Tuesday night. The dispatch announcing the fact, says that he expired peacefully in his bed without a struggle. If this be so, nothing in his life so became him as the manner of his leaving it. He was a man of decided intellect, of stormy passions, and a heart fatally bent on mischief, and regardless of the consequences performance of the high duties which his abilities qualified him to discharge. He had attained nearly four score years, much of which was spent in public positions, but his country received no benefit from his services, and is relieved in his death.

and every Saturday morning until disposed of, Dr. G. S. Miles will offer at auction to the highest bidder, a large lot of new-made clothing, boots, shoes, etc., at L. Rosenberg's old stand, on Clinton street. Our citizens now have a chance to purchase their fall and winter clothing at wholesale prices, as the stock is bound to be disposed of.

Good News.—If you want cheap home-made furniture, call on Charles Oswald, at his new furniture store.

The German School.—Professor Schneider's German School opens September 1st, in the German Church. This school is under the control of an able Board of Trustees, of which Mr. J. A. Frenz, is President; and have secured Prof. Schneider as its teacher. We presume our German population will patronize the school liberally, and no American parent should neglect the opportunity to send their children—as the German language is becoming as necessary to be thoroughly understood as the English, and its acquirement almost as necessary in every branch of business. In this school all the different branches of the English studies are taught as well as the German. For terms, and particulars, see advertisement in another place.

RURAL ACADEMY.—This Academy is situated in one of the most pleasant and healthy localities, and enjoys the reputation of being one of the best and most popular schools in the county. Its teacher, Mr. J. G. Westbrook, is a gentleman of ability, and experience, and is well qualified to sustain the high reputation of the school. The first term opens the 7th of September, and continues for twenty weeks. The tuition is moderate and board can be obtained from $10 to $12 per month. We know of few better schools than Rural Academy for both sexes.

PROMPTNESS.—Persons having Furniture, repaired can save time and money by calling at Oswald's Furniture Manufactory.

OUR FAIR.—Our citizens should not forget that our next annual Fair will commence on the 29th of September, continuing five days, and should not neglect to have the "best" of everything they have on hand. The Board of Directors are alive to their work as will be seen from their proceedings in another column. They have made arrangements to have the grounds repaired and cleared off; a music stand erected in the centre of the amphitheatre; a committee appointed to procure music. Major Lauderdale has been appointed Marshall, and J. W. Cowgill his assistant.

We would here remark that the Treasurer, B. R. Walker, wishes all the Stockholders to come forward and pay their second instalment.

PLANTER'S HOTEL.—This elegant new hotel is now open for the reception of visitors, is neatly furnished throughout, and provided with all the late improvement, of first class hotels. The proprietors, Messrs. Parks & Co., keep their table well supplied with the best in the market, and make their guests feel perfectly at home.

MUSIC.—We are indebted to Root & Cady, Chicago, for the following pieces of new music: "Walk, Walk, Walk," song and chorus; music by C. T. Lockwood—price 25c.

"Tommy's Return," composed by C. T. Lockwood.

"Beautiful Hands," song and chorus. "The Little Ones at Home."

The above music can be had by addressing Root & Cady, No. 67 Washington street, Chicago, Ill.

Advertisements of every description, and Spring bottoms for beds—one of the best inventions of the age—always on hand and for sale cheap by Chas. Oswald.

LATEST TENNESSEE NEWS.

The Legislature.
In the House, Mr. Dyer introduced a bill to amend the act of the Legislature, passed March 16, 1868, to organize and equip the State Guard, and regulate the Governor's staff.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee, That the act passed March 16, 1868, be so amended as to give the Governor full power to increase his clerical force when there are State Guards in actual service, to such numbers as the absolute necessities of the service may require, to execute all orders and perform such services as the Governor may assign them.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That the Governor and the Board of Finance of the State shall have control of so much of the finances of the State as may be necessary to meet all the expenses incurred by calling out, organizing, equipping and paying the State Guards, under the act of the State of Tennessee.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, That the militia or State Guards called out under the provisions of the act to which this is amendatory, when mustered out of the service of the State, shall be liable to indictment or presentment for any suits for damages for any acts done under orders or in the line of duty.

The Bill passed its first reading, and will be read a second time to-morrow.

Mr. Prosser, from the committee on military affairs, reported the following bill, with the recommendation that it be adopted in lieu of all others which had been referred to the committee.

An Act to enforce the laws of the State. Whereas, this State is a lawless land and desperadoes who are setting at defiance civil law, and by their threats and acts of violence are forcing many of our citizens to leave their homes and villages, and it is entirely impossible for civil officers of the State to enforce the laws, and maintain the supremacy of the law may be maintained, and that peace and order may prevail, therefore,

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee, That the Governor of the State is hereby authorized and empowered, when he shall deem it necessary, to organize, equip, and call into active service a volunteer force, to be known as the "Tennessee State Guards," to be composed of one or more regiments from each Congressional District of the State.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That the said force shall be organized, armed, equipped, regulated and governed by the Rules and Articles of War and the revised army regulations of the United States, as far as applicable, and shall receive pay and allowance according to grade of rank, as provided for the United States army, while in actual service, to be paid out of money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, That all persons, singly or collectively, who shall disguise themselves for the purpose of disturbing the public peace or intimidating any of the citizens of the State, and all persons, either singly or collectively, who shall enter the house of private citizen without proper authority, for the purpose of disturbing or molesting the persons or the property of such citizen shall be declared outlaws, and on conviction shall be punished by imprisonment for not less than five years, in the State Penitentiary.

Sec. 4. Be it further enacted, That all laws in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

The bill was adopted in lieu of all others, in accordance with the recommendation of the committee, was passed on its second reading.

Peace and Emancipation—A Dark Prospect.
From the Union and Dispatch.

With sensations of profound regret we chronicle the temper and conduct of the Tennessee House of Representatives. It will be seen that the debate upon the proposition to submit an enfranchising ordinance to the voters of Tennessee, submitted by Judge Lee through Gov. Brownlow, was continued, and that the few conservative voices were drowned in a torrent of fierce and malignant invective, and the proposition itself refused consideration by any overwhelming majority.

The indications also are that the bills looking to an organization of the military force to be quartered on the people, and other measures of proscription, will be passed.

The sun of yesterday set at the capital with the minds of thoughtful men oppressed with gloomy fears for the preservation of the peace of society. Petitions, professedly from persons of good faith, prayers of conservative men, have all been ruthlessly scooped, and an abrupt, and it is to be apprehended, a final termination has been made of all efforts to moderate the violence which is a sure precursor to collision and calamitous strife. In the faint hope, and we confess that we have never entertained any other, that even yet a wiser and more pacific spirit will prevail before the dispersion of this extraordinary session of the Legislature, we shall be silent as to advice to a people whom the men in authority seem bent on driving to desperation.

er before disgraced humanity in a civilized country? They talk of imaginary wrongs of Klu Klux Klans! Granting all that their cowardly souls ever feared from the ghastly brotherhood, and what are they to the harmless and numberless outrages that a patient people have endured as the legitimate fruits of a policy, the offspring of malice and cupidity, and pursued in the names of loyalty and liberty.

Dark indeed is the picture before us; and I would call upon the reckless men, who are hurrying us on to a desperate alternative, to pause in their madness—to pause and reflect. There is a point beyond which, patience is exhausted, and men will not forbear. The sublime principles of the Declaration of Independence are not dead forever. The spirit which actuated its authors is inexhaustible. If they force war upon us, as they seem disposed to do, it may be their ruin as well as ours.

Then, if convicted criminals, boasting and glorying in the perpetration of the highest crimes known to the law, and turned out of our jails and penitentiaries by hundreds, for the purpose, are to be turned loose upon peaceable and inoffensive citizens—men, women, and children—to burn, murder, pillage, and commit nameless crimes, then who doubts that war is inevitable?

I know of but two roads out of our present unhappy condition. One is to fold our hands in inaction and await the tardy justice of the North—hearing in silent fortitude oppressions such as no other freedom ever endured, until pity for our misfortunes touches the great hearts of the American people and animates them to strike the shackles from our limbs. The other is the great American republican remedy—the remedy of the Constitution.

Article I, section 1st, of the Constitution of Tennessee is as follows: "All power is inherent in the people, and all free governments are founded on their authority and instituted for their peace, safety, and happiness; for the advancement of those ends they have, at all times, an inalienable and indefeasible right to alter, reform, or abolish the government in such manner as they may think proper."

Article I, section 2, reads as follows: "That government be instituted for the common benefit, the doctrine of non-resistance against arbitrary power and oppression, is absurd, slavish, and destructive of the good and happiness of mankind."

I know that, to the irresponsible faction who have usurped absolute authority in the State, and who have resolved that the people must submit and obey, the people, this sounds like "rebellion."

But it is said that if we attempt "to alter, reform, or abolish the government," United States troops will be called for to crush us. We reply that we will be acting strictly within the letter of the law and the Constitution, and in the exercise of a right guaranteed to us by the Federal Constitution itself, and so far from being rebels, as our friends in the North, such a policy, if we keep within the bounds of the Constitution and the law, will encourage them to help us.

What political crimes has radicalism perpetrated in the case of the names of "Liberty" and "Loyalty?" They have established a law higher than the constitution, and invaded the very holy of holies in the temple of liberty.

They have made the sublime principles of the Declaration of Independence a by-word and a hissing.

They have invaded the sacred precincts of the courts of justice, and tampered with the scales of justice, and overturned the very bulwarks of the law.

They have violated the prerogative of the Chief Magistrate of the nation, and attempted to prostitute his high office to partisan and unholy purposes.

They have established military despotism over sovereign States in times of peace, and by a system of outrage and usurpation, for party purposes, unheard of in the annals of any Republican government, have foisted upon them constitutions and office holders against the express will of the people, and against the peace and dignity of the State.

They have over-burdened the people with taxation, and consumed their substance for the purpose of filling the capacious pockets of their hirelings, and for the purpose of keeping themselves in power.

They have made one currency for the rich and another for the poor. They have excluded from the halls of legislation the representatives chosen by the people, and admitted in their stead the pliant tools of partisan power. They have kept immense standing armies in times of peace, and taxed an overburdened people to sustain them. They have trampled under foot the ancient altars of our country, around which cluster a thousand sacred names and memories; they have abolished time-honored customs, forms, and precedents, and created strange altars and strange gods, and bid us bow down and worship them.

Lassie's.
A feeling of lassitude is generally experienced throughout the summer months. Weakly constituted persons or those of sedentary habits invariably complain of this lassitude. The circulating system, and summer relaxes the system and reduces the vital energies. If the patient is of a nervous temperament, the lassitude is more pronounced. For even the ordinary routine of every day life. When this state of exhaustion comes on, HOSKINS'S STOMACH BITTERS will prove a safe and never-failing means of strengthening and restoring the playing organization.

It purifies and infuses renewed vitality into the blood, tones the system, and restores the system. It effectively removes all the impurities of the blood, and is invaluable, as it soothes and braces up, while its powerful effects are of the most beneficial character. The lassitude of age are alleviated by its use. It revivifies the strength, increases the appetite and gives vigor and elasticity to the constitution.

When mothers are nursing INFANTS, STOMACH BITTERS will especially be taken in regular doses. In this country, most always, the nourishment is inadequate to the wants of the child. In such cases, this invigorating tonic is wonderfully efficacious. Its strengthening virtues are at once apparent. It is free from all properties calculated to impair the system, and its operations are at once mild and soothing.
